

Peru

Lake Puray picnic

Venture to almost 3,500 metres above sea level to explore the remote landscapes around Lake Puray and feast on a traditional pachamanca picnic, then pay homage to Mother Earth to thank her for being the source of all life

Peru

Andean cooking experience

Take to the highlands of the Sacred Valley for an amazing Andean cooking class, where you'll learn how to prepare traditional dishes such as ceviche, causa, roast potatoes, alpaca, trout and quinoa salad, and it goes without saying, how to make the perfect pisco sour

Peru

Sacred Valley cycle

Hop on a bike for an exhilarating experience on two wheels with a guided bike tour along the River Urubamba in the Sacred Valley of the Incas, visiting terraces off the beaten track, cycling on ancient Inca trails and through the winding alleys of Ollantaytambo

A man in traditional Peruvian attire, including a black hat with a white band and colorful tassels, and a red tunic with a colorful geometric patterned vest, is smiling and playing a guitar. The background shows a dense cityscape, likely Lima, Peru, with a hillside in the foreground.

Peru

Peruvian musical journey in Lima

Get into the rhythm of Peruvian life with a magical journey through the country's musical culture. Visit the legendary El Cocodrilo Verde bar in Miraflores for live performances of indigenous vernacular genres such as Andean, Afro-Peruvian and Amazonian

A collection of colorful Peruvian wool dyed items, including bags and scarves, hanging on a wooden rack. The items feature various patterns and colors, such as stripes and geometric designs. The background is a rustic wooden wall.

Peru

Ancient Inca wool dyeing workshop

Be greeted by a pututu conch band and a cup of freshly brewed organic Yanatile Valley coffee before learning from a master craftswoman the techniques for dyeing wool used by the Corao community since pre-colonial times – a wonderful one-on-one cultural experience